Hoopla, Zinio, & Overdrive, Oh My!

These are the digital resource platforms that the library offers through our collaboration with the Finger Lakes Library System to bring you streaming movies, music, comics, electronic e-audiobooks and e-books. Hoopla was added so patrons might enjoy movies and music from anywhere with a robust internet connection. No holds are required for this service, but patrons are limited to three check-outs per month. Zinio for magazines is easy to use, and once subscribed, patrons can receive email alerts when the latest issue of their favorite magazines become available. Overdrive is a one title one user model, so placing holds on the most popular books is necessary, but having this collection accessible on your reading device is worth the wait.

Your library card and password are all you need to explore these selections on your computers, tablets, phones and e-readers. Each service requires an account, and the instructions vary by device. Drop-in help is scheduled from 4-5 pm on Thursdays or anytime during open library hours if staff is available. You can also visit our website for device specific digital help or use our Ask Us 24/7 chat reference service. Just in case you are wondering, our print circulation has increased by nearly 1,000 check-outs as compared to last July, up from 4,847 to 5,826. We have circulated over 1,900 digital titles through Overdrive alone for 2016. Readers read! The format is your choice.

"Movies...ruining the book since 1920"

I saw that saying several years ago, on a t-shirt worn by a volunteer here at UPL. It made me laugh then, and makes me think now, not just about movies, but of how technology is changing how we enjoy our books.

As a kid I remember flipping through reference books to discover new things, being so caught up in a story that I'd begin to turn the page even before I'd finished the final sentence on the page before, and feeling that fabulous sense of closure when I finally put down a good book at the end. I loved books..but they only came in one format.

Now it's so much different. With my kids, it's not uncommon for me to see them reading an e-book in the morning, a physical book during the day, and then listening to an audiobook at night. So many formats...and so many books!

As technology has changed, so has our library. Now we have enough formats for everyone to find something that they can enjoy...books and e-books, DVDs and streaming movies, CDs and e-audiobooks, newspapers and e-magazines. Thanks to our expanding collection, you can read, or watch, or listen... the format is up to you.

But even with all this technological change, one thing has remained the same...the book is still better than the movie.

UPL Runs on Volunteers

When I began as the Volunteer Coordinator earlier this year, I was surprised and impressed with the team of regularly committed volunteers who keeps this Library going every day. This valuable participation from our community has continued to grow with a variety of new volunteers with an amazing diversity of backgrounds including: a visiting professional from silicon valley, a chiropractic student fulfilling community service hours, middle school students assisting the summer reading program, high school students looking to enhance their college applications, the newly retired, and a returning college professor.

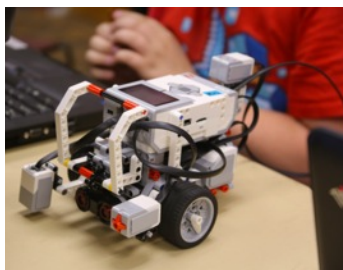

One thing is clear, UPL runs on volunteers and we couldn't possibly carry out our mission without them, without you! I am so happy to be a part of this lively community and look forward to meeting our future volunteers.

Robotics, Research, & Read

Trumansburg Robotics coaches taught a series of robotics classes at the library last spring. The program was generously funded by the Bernard Carl and Shirley Rosen Library Fund of the Community Foundation of Tompkins County. Thanks to Tracy Kirkman, Jeff Honig, Helen Arco, Bob Arco, Glen Straight, and Nina Redmond for helping to organize and coach.

OFFICIAL POKéSTOP Trainers Welcome

Hello trainers! Welcome to our library! We are thrilled that so many of you are dropping by to take advantage of our new Pokéstop located at our front door. Just remember that our building has air-conditioning, a drinking fountain, public restrooms, and books to read. Stop in and recharge, it's hot out there! Our resident Team Instinct Trainer Martha Carpenter has been testing out lures this week and has caught everything from one million Ratatas, to a Pikachu, and a Growlithe. Stop in and let us know how the hunt is going! Good luck trainers, and welcome to the library! If you don't know what any of this means, you probably aren't playing Pokémon Go!

First Annual Young Poets Contest

The library received excellent submissions for the Spring poetry contest. The following poems are the winners for the child and teen categories. Thank you to everyone who entered and congratulations to our winners! Thank you to Cat's Pajamas in the Dewitt Mall for donating prizes of a notebook to the child winner & a magnetic poetry set to the teen winner. We look forward to next year's contest!

Child Category:

Aepples

by Laik Uticone, age 11

I see a red ball up in the tree.
I feel the smooth skin,
I think it's an Apple.
I taste the Aepple, I smell its scent,
And I hear the bees buzzing up in the Aepple tree.

Teen Category:

Demons

by Orion Vogel-Moore, age 13

Diamonds come from coal,
sunny days have snow.
Dreams can turn to nightmares,
even perfect lives have their affairs.
Anything in life is possible,
No matter good or bad.
So go back to the demons,
you never thought you had.
Bad things in life are needed,
they simply are unique.
Because without these demons,
Pleasure is extinct.

Third Annual StoryBake & StoryAuction

October 29th, 10:00am-2:00pm

This year, the StoryBake and StoryAuction is celebrating Fall and Halloween! Participants are encouraged to use your favorite spooky book or story's title, theme, or main character as inspiration to decorate a cake! There will be three categories of participants, youth (14 and under), adult (15 and older), and family (parent and child). The first 8 applications will be accepted from each age category. Applications turned in after we already have our 24 contestants will be placed on a waiting list, in the event we have a cancellation. Applications with details and contest instructions are available at the library.

The deadline for applications is October 17th.

Winners will be decided by "popular" vote. Tickets may be purchased for $1 each and placed in a box next to the cake being voted for. The cake receiving the most tickets, or votes, will be the winner. There will be one winner in each age category. Cakes will go home with the lucky winners whose raffle tickets are drawn.

Membership News

Who doesn't want to belong to something? Whether it be a club, group of friends, a professional association, a loose association of sports fans – there are many things people can choose to join. Typically, the positive aspects of belonging to groups such as these are multiple and beneficial to both the group and the individual.

That is absolutely the case for people choosing to become members of the Ulysses Philomathic Library Association. The library is a vibrant center of information and resources, and provides access to knowledge for everyone in the community. Becoming a member means that the wealth of possibility that exists at the Ulysses Philomathic Library – through books, magazines, digital media, internet access and the many, many programs regularly offered – will continue to be available to all. People can become members of the UPL Association at all levels of financial support. Contributions the library receives from people joining as members or those renewing their membership are an important part of its financial health. Those funds are directed to the operating budget and enable UPL to continue and expand on its important services and popular programs, including its after-school opportunities for local students.

In addition to ensuring the Ulysses Philomathic Library's presence in our community, membership benefits also include an invitation to the annual Candlelight Dinner gala, the opportunity to vote for UPL Trustees and receive a special member-only night for the used book sales that take place twice a year. Join or renew now with your tax-deductible donation!
