From the Director...

Every year as we move into Autumn I have a moment of relief that the Summer chaos is literally and figuratively cooling down. But then I remember it just means the holiday season is on its way and I laugh. The activity in the library changes seasonally too. This summer has been very lively; our plan to spread out Summer Reading Program events to different times of the day and week was well received by families. We saw lots more happy kiddos, especially during evening programs. This summer I often noticed most, if not all the tables and chairs being used by patrons, and both the Study Room and the Local History Room occupied at the same time. You all know what a resource our library is and are here to make good use of it!

We have lots planned for the next season, things never actually slow down around here. Website design with Luke Hodde is back, we're also looking forward to wreath making with Thistle Flower Farm and learning to paint with watercolors by Barbara Nowogrodzki. For youth programs we will be hosting a special Storytime Yoga evening mini-series and launching a Dungeons & Dragons Book Club after school. See you at the library!

-Ksana Broadwell, Library Director

Membership Matters

It's always amazing how quickly we wind up in the second half of every year. We've already passed through the wonderful newness of springtime, graduation celebrations, summer concerts, abundant CSA farm shares, and even our annual UPL Volunteer Picnic. Now we are beginning another school year, with thoughts of supporting children in all their associated social and academic activities. At the same time enjoying fall harvest seasons and thoughts of wonderful winter activities.

Through all that, UPL has been a beacon inviting community in to find and enjoy all the library has to offer. Our summer reading programs, our weekly story times, our engaging evening events, outreach at the Farmer's Market, computers and internet access for all, thought provoking community art displays, books and media resources for all ages and interests, and a stellar group of staff and volunteers to welcome and assist; this is just a small list of what UPL offers to the community. There is so much more.

And you dear Association Member are critical at every point in the year to the successes of UPL. Your dedicated financial support is a key to enabling UPL to provide and expand its services. Your presence on our membership roles is critical to understanding the community support for what UPL offers. We deeply appreciate our Association Members!

In the midst of time flying by, have you already made your 2019 Association Membership contribution? To those who have – fantastic, thank you! To those who have been distracted by other obligations, we hope you see this note and stop by UPL right away to say "hi" and submit your membership. Of course you can also either return the enclosed envelope with your contribution or join online via the UPL website at www.trumansburglibrary.org.

This year and every year, we look forward to providing you excellent opportunities at UPL to enjoy the love of learning. Thank you for continuing to help make that possible!

-Rene Carver, Vice President of the Board
